What

In small cohorts, organizations have the opportunity to advance their skills for developing and successfully implementing an MLE practice at the portfolio, initiative, strategy, or organization level. This includes how to use helpful frameworks, facilitation tools, and techniques to bring others along. Beyond the technical nuts and bolts, we also focus on how to effectively develop practices and processes to support adoption and use as well as to build organizational momentum around MLE.

The MLE Consulting Lab

Who

The MLE Consulting Lab is an advanced experience appropriate for directors or staff with responsibility for strategy, evaluation, measurement, planning, or knowledge development. We strongly encourage multiple members of an organization to participate. We currently do not offer training to consultants.

How

The Lab format includes a two-and-a-half day in-person launch with the entire cohort, five facilitated online webinars with the cohort, and individualized coaching for each organization.

Why

Link strategy and evaluation | Focus on how to de-silo your strategy and evaluation efforts by weaving an optimal, fit-to-purpose MLE practice into your organizational structure.

Develop a toolkit of approaches | MLE can be technical. Learn how to make the technical accessible by building up your own toolkit of facilitation techniques and frameworks, to engage others from your organization in MLE practice.

Build momentum | Think through how to embed MLE practice into your organization and how to get people on board and bought into the idea of MLE.

Become a learning organization | Increase the use of data to inform practices and decisions. Become familiar with learning processes to enhance your MLE practice.
